THE BERNE WITNESS, MONDAY, AUGUST 7, 1914

Miss Beatrice Harris was at home over Sunday visiting at her parental home.

Mrs. J. F. Bockman, Mrs. D. Bixler and Ermin Bixler motored to Fort Wayne Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. George Bandtel.

True Gottschalk came home from Tiffin, Ohio, where he has been teaching school during the past number of weeks.

David Neuhauser has been forced to give up his regular ice route for a few days because of an abscess and a boil on the right finger and arm.

The body of J. J. Smith, a railroad employee, who was killed west of Ft. Wayne last Thursday, was brought here on the 1:26 train last Saturday. Undertaker Bieje took the body to Chattanooga where it was buried in the mausoleum at that place. Mr. Smith was a brother-in-law of Joe Reichert who formerly lived in Berne but who is now at Fort Wayne. Many relatives, including Mr. and Mrs. Reichert, came off the train here and were taken over to Chattanooga in autos.
