SGT. BUD METZGER DIED AIDING BUDDY Captain of Company Writes To Mother

Sgt. Edward J. (Bud) Metzger, son of Mrs. Marie Anderson, 317 North Ninth street, was killed in Germany on Feb. 21, as he went to aid a wounded comrade, Capt. Keith J. Andson, commanding officer of the company to which Sgt. Metzger was attached, has informed the mother.

"He gave his life for another, and there is no way one can express appropriate tribute to men such as that," the captain wrote.

In praise of Sgt. Metzger's high character and service to his county, Capt. Anderson, wrote the following excellent letter from somewhere in Germany, dated March 13.

"There is little that I can say to aid you in your time of sorrow over the death of your son, Tech. 4 Edward J. Metzger. The loss to the troops is great, for Sgt. Metzger held an important place, both in the esteem of the men and in the efficiency of the troops. Your son was tied closely to the members of this organization with a deep, firm bond of respect and friendship, which is peculiar to men who work, play and fight together in complete trust and accord. The friendships thus forged in fire are one of the few fine things to come out of war, and your son enjoyed many of them.

"As with many good soldiers, Sgt. Metzger was killed while going to the aid of a wounded comrade. He gave his life for another, and there is no way one can express appropriate tribute to men such as that.

"Sgt. Metzger was killed in action in Western Germany on Feb. 21, 1945. He was buried in an American military cemetery in the Duchy of Luxemburg. Services were held by a Catholic chaplain.

"I can assure you that Sgt. Metzger will always hold a place in the memories of those with whom he fought. Because we, too, feel his loss so keenly, we can realize something of your own great loss. We extend our deepest sympathy to you in your bereavement.

"The price we are paying in this war seems tremendous at times, but I can assure you that what we see of the countries and people over here makes it seem worth while at any price. The conditions over here must not and will not ever be duplicated in our country.

"I hope that you can come to feel as I do, that the terrible price we are paying over here is worthwhile and necessary, so that we may keep our country the same as it is now for the future generations. I know that Sgt. Metzger felt this way.

"Sincerely yours,

"Keith J. Anderson, Capt., Tr. "D", 90th Cav. Ren. Sq., Commanding."
