

Commercial Review, Portland Indiana; Saturday July 31,1897

An Old Resident Of Town Dies At Home.

Greenbury Tharp, an old resident of the city died last night at the home of his daughter in Muncie and is expected that the body will arrive here on the train over the Lake Erie and Western Railroad. Until then no arrangements will be made. Baird and Freeman directors are in charge.

Mr. Tharp was well known by nearly everyone in Portland, having lived here for several years. He had for some time followed the trade of basket making and had always wore his hair long with his locks flowing over his shoulders.

Contributed by DSON1492