PREFACE

Dear Members of the LaFollette Family:

In preparing this supplement to the family history, we have taken up where John H. LaFollette left off in 1895. It would be impossible to include every branch of the family, as he had started it, so we are concerning ourselves with the Mary J. and Nancy E. LaFollette lines. In a few instances, designated by , we are including information sent to us by other branches of the family. For the benefit of those who do not have a copy of the original book we are reprinting a few of that writer's comments.

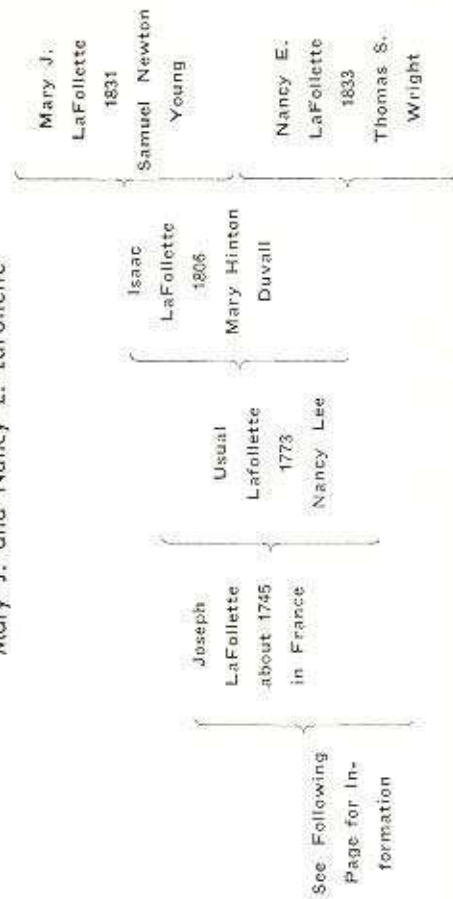

We mailed to a representative of each family, a copy of their record, with a request that they correct any mistakes, or make any additions they desire. We regret that limited time and information and the added cost of printing makes it impractical to include more about each individual member. The purpose of the book is to provide a handy reference to the family genealogy.

Most of the data for this supplement was collected by correspondence; we want to thank all who gave of their time and effort to get it to us. We hope that they will get as much enjoyment from reading it as we had putting it together.

Affectionately,
Chloe Young Moxingo

ORIGINAL FAMILY

Joseph LaFollette was born in France about 1745. He and his brothers, George and Charles, together with their father and mother, came to America during the Reign of Terror in France because they were Huguenots (French Protestants) and were banished by the Catholic government.

The father was killed during the War of Revolution by the British and Indians. About the beginning of the Revolution Joseph LaFollette settled in New Jersey and there married Miss Phoebe Goble; after their marriage they removed to Kentucky and reared their family, listed in the next section of this book.

In the autumn of 1828 Joseph LaFollette, Sr., accompanied by his son Jesse, came to Indiana and the following winter stayed with his nephew Joseph LaFollette, and afterward made his home with his son Usual LaFollette. He died in 1834 and was buried in the family cemetery in Russell township, Putnam County, Indiana.⁵
